The Six Counts

Keep this page where you can see it. Photograph it. Stick it on the refrigerator.

The Count	The Number	When
Chews	32 per bite, fork down between bites	Every meal
Hours between meals	Overnight space of 12, then 14, then 16; last bite 3 hours before bed	Overnight and evening
Steps	Keep your floor, build toward 8,000 and beyond	All day
Morning light	10 minutes outside	First hour awake
Water	2 glasses before noon, the first before coffee	Morning
Nights	7 hours, 7 nights a week	Weekly

The stack: one morning walk before breakfast checks several boxes at once: steps, light, your overnight space, last night's sleep, and your water.

Weigh-in: once a week, same scale, same morning. It is a plain note, not a target.

The streak: days in a row. Never miss twice.

The promise: you do not count calories, macros, points, grams, money, reps, or forbidden foods.
